A sequence of five grayscale images showing the progression of a circular object's motion. The first image shows a small circle on the left. The second image shows a larger circle on the right. The third image shows a very large circle in the center. The fourth image shows a small circle on the right. The fifth image shows a large circle on the left.

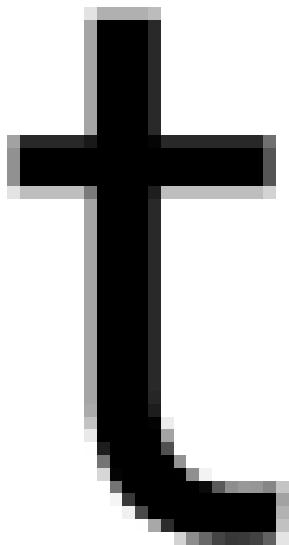

The image consists of four panels arranged horizontally. Panel 1 shows a dark gray vertical bar on the right and a small portion of a circle on the left. Panel 2 shows the circle has rotated clockwise, with its top half visible and the bottom half hidden behind the vertical bar. Panel 3 shows the circle has rotated further, with only a sliver of its left side visible. Panel 4 shows the circle has rotated almost full circle, with its right side visible and the left side hidden behind the vertical bar.
